SUPPORT PRESIDENT TAFT.

The hazard of democracy, the fear of Roosevelt, and the trust in Taft, the political story as it is seen in the present campaign and why the country should return the president to the White House. Promises do not give the assurance that are to be found in the record of President Taft where there is set forth the evidence of his out and stand for constructive legislation, the welfare of the people, the best conditions under a protective tariff, and peace in preference to war.

In support of President Taft, the Independent has this to say: "We support him because he represents the party of equal rights for all, the party which opened and has never shut the door of equal opportunity. We support him because he represents the party which is most likely to give us a period of continued and growing prosperity. His party is designed to reduce excessive tariffs and will do it under information impartially obtained and based on comparative cost of production, both here and abroad. It will control the tariff by a commission which will restrain the railroad commissions operate in states. We trust him in international affairs. He has proved himself a prudent executive. His administration has been a law has been enforced as compared with the weakness of its enforcement during the four years following the contribution of millions of dollars by the trust to secure the election in 1904 of his predecessor."

It is evident that the thinking voters are taking the same sensible view of the situation as The Independent sets forth. He has conducted an honest, businesslike, progressive administration, wherein the common people have been far better recognized, not by the blast of trumpets, but by action. It is the doing which counts and which will get the votes November 5.

THE BECKER CASE EXAMPLE.

The finding of the jury in the Becker trial in New York was one of much importance to that city. It was the outcome which agreed with popular opinion and for its influence on New York city, with its twelves for deterring honest judgment, to bring in such a verdict makes it evident that he is guilty beyond doubt. Such a verdict must have made New York breathe easier and arrive at the belief that justice still exists. It was a case dealing with desperate criminals, "the cesspool of life in the accused crenelated," as the prosecutor termed it. It was a remarkable case in more than one way, the end of which has not of course been reached. Justice Goff presided over the trial with refreshing frankness. He required the adherence to material evidence and would not tolerate delay but fairness for all concerned marked his action. After a long and drawn out trial it holds an important place in criminal procedure, an example which the future may well pattern after.

There are many other trials along the same line which will be taken up very soon and New York should see that they are likewise conducted. The fact that Justice Goff has agreed to preside over at least one of these will mean a good start. If the metropolis expects to conduct an effective clean-up and do so sincerely the way has been pointed out. Justice and the establishment of the fact that notorious scoundrels cannot run the city is a necessity.

The bull moose electors of South Dakota have officially declared that their votes are needed for Taft, he will receive them. This means that they recognize the fact that they have taken the rights of the republican party and if possible they will turn them to Roosevelt.

Candidate Studley of the republican party in this state and General Lee at Gettysburg and helped defeat him. Gov. Baldwin, when he addressed the veterans, praised General Lee and forgot to say a good word for Grant or any other union general.

The pension bill which is being so fiercely assailed by the democratic and progressive spellbinders was passed by a democratic congress. Candidate Wilson thinks in this the democratic congress made a deplorable blunder.

The only time a man is happier with a $5,000 auto than the one with a $900 car is when he goes before the passengers and they all pay taxes alike.

THE FOREIGN MARKET.

The selling of American products in foreign markets is one which has caused much confusion of mind, in view of the fact that claims are made that goods from this country can be bought for a less figure in other lands than they can be purchased here. This is an old free-trade claim without due explanation. In the first place, goods which are sold in the foreign market represent the surplus of products in this country. In competing in the foreign market where a foothold may be desired, prices are sacrificed for the reason on a small amount of goods, statistics showing that of our manufactured products amounting to twenty and a half million, only 2.5 per cent went abroad, and superiority of American goods in many cases was responsible for the sale. The foreign field offers a chance for working off excess goods. The expense of selling is not so great in the moving of a surplus stock.

It is evident that it must be a small portion of American products which will be sold at lower figures abroad for the amount reached a large figure it would have a detrimental effect upon wages. It would be impossible to maintain the wage scale of employees if in competition with the world and the cheaper labor which is to be found in foreign countries. When goods to any extent are made to meet prices in free-trade countries, the price of labor must drop accordingly. No one wants that condition. The past has demonstrated its effect.

SUFFRAGE IN ENGLAND.

It is not surprising that there is a division among the suffragettes in Great Britain over the methods used in the effort to secure suffrage there. For a long time there has been the determination to do or die in the cause of the cause to such an extent that it was getting to the point where the advocates were attempting most any means in order to serve as martyrs. This meant that law and order were disregarded, property sentences for damage to property, assault and arson resorted to in jail sentences, only to be followed by hunger strikes with impairment of health or death threatening. Much ground was lost through the lawlessness and violence of the militants, which they hoped by martyrdom to regain. It was a condition resulting from such a sacrifice which was hoped to carry the cause through, but it has been followed every time.

The break in the ranks evidently means that the folly of such proceedings has been seen and that like any other great cause it must be presented before the people right. That this has not been done before is regrettable in a country where equal suffrage or any other important problem is at issue. The extremists seem to be hindering rather than helping their own cause, and strange it is, that they have not seen that their actions are only delaying the time when suffrage will be granted.

SIR THOMAS LIPTON'S REQUEST.

Sir Thomas Lipton has not issued a new challenge for America's cup, but it is apparent that he would like to try a new model in competition with one built on this side of the water. He has proved a first class sportsman under losing conditions and he has not entirely lost his nerve, but it is evident that he does not believe that he can build a racing yacht on the other side which will stand the buffeting of the voyage across and win the race. The trials he has made have shown the lack of probability. Sir Thomas is now at Chicago, and there he has requested his willingness to provide another challenger if the rules of the New York Yacht club can be so changed as to give him a chance to lift the cup.

He wants the requirement that the challenger must come across under its own sail, removed. He thinks that it is impossible to build a successful racer which will be strong enough to cross the ocean. In that he does not give the credit of the victories to American skill or seamanship. He feels that the conditions are the same for all concerned, whether the race is on this side or on his side. It is the sailing qualities of the American yachts combined with the skill of the navigators which have kept the cup here.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Happy thought for today: The man who gets into trouble usually blames some one else for it.

The progressive voters' assual the veterans and lie about them. This does not look like progress.

There is going to be no more exiling to Siberia in Russia is good news. The czar seems to be making progress.

Taft has put 35,000 fourth-class postmasters under civil service reform during his four years. This spells progress!

Any man who goes about calling other men crooks and thieves, is very apt to have serious trouble. It is not the way of peace.

When it comes to a crooked deal, the California situation is a glaring example. This is the state of which Johnson is governor.

It is no wonder Sulzer thinks he is going to win in New York state. He thinks he made Great Britain vote home rule for Ireland.

It has been necessary to have a woman murdered before any effective steps to check the white-slave trade in Bridgeport was taken.

The Greeks are offering a remarkable example of patriotism and citizens of this country who are aiming to undermine constitutional government.

The republican managers claim Taft will have 250 of the 321 votes in the electoral college, and Wilson 124, which leaves 117 to the remaining candidates.

The bull moose candidates who are so confident of success they are preparing to go to Washington next March may lose their arbor on the morning of November 6.

The early Christmas shopping campaign is on before the election is off. What is the use of letting Christmas agitation get in before the pumpkin pies are ready for Thanksgiving?

The law allows no pension to men who have not served over 90 days; but 90 days' service in time of Gettysburg and Antietam had more business and profit in them than three years' service had for some men.

A Kansas man is offering ten cents a word for any utterances of Stubbs in praise of the republican party for two years' and six months have passed and he hasn't lost a cent. Stubbs is still claiming to be a republican.

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.

Boiled rice must always be lightly handled. It should not be stirred with a fork or spoon.

A spoonful of flour added to the grease in which eggs are to be fried will prevent them from breaking or sticking to the pan.

Wax candles which have become dirty or soiled can be made perfectly white by rubbing them with a clean piece of dandel dipped in spirits of wine.

Always put a cauliflower in plain water, so as to draw out any insects. If said to be placed in the water it kills the insects and they are left in the vegetable.

Plaster casts may be cleaned by dipping them into cold liquid starch, which can be brushed off when dry, and the dirt will be found to come off with the starch.

When making baked or boiled custard, the milk should be scalded and set aside to cool. Then make a custard in the ordinary way and it will be perfectly smooth.

Pour boiling water over lemons before using. This will, through the amount of juice they will produce. The pulp of a lemon is an excellent teeth cleanser. A bit of lemon put in the copper with a little boiling water will thoroughly clean it.

NEW WARE.

Nickel silver is the newest in plated ware for the table, and it not only wears well but is pretty to look upon.

An asparagus dish in this ware is very new and novel. It has a ribbed section for the asparagus ends, as well as one sauce cup at each end of the dish, which is shaped like a tray.

A salad set contains two cruets, three little bottles for salt and two kinds of pepper, and a bowl for mixing the dressing at the table is another novelty.

An oblong water tray with six tumblers set into nickel silver rims is new and attractive. The middle part of the handle is wicker.

A sandwich tray in this new ware shows the lovely old fashioned grape pattern seen on the silver tea trays owned by the grandmothers of this generation.

NEEDLEWORK NOTES.

If matting is sewed with strong, soft thread, making long stitching instead of facking overlaps, there will be no ridges or scuffs out with the feet, as there always are if the breadths are lapped and fastened with tacks. A poor quality of matting is an extravagance. One piece of good quality will outlast two or three poor pieces.

Waste paper baskets with a bold design of cretonne flowers almost covered with long stitches in colored silks are ornamental. Only a little over a half of the basket is covered, and the design is artistically applied on the rim. The design is first roughly cut out, and the basket, worked over, and then cut away to the edges and attached to the wicker.

Keep a small hammer on the sewing machine. A few sharp taps on a thick seam fattens it, and causes it to pass easily under the presser foot. A hem may be turned, "hammered" lightly and sewed without tacking. The hammer smoothed and firmly over the fold of tucks make them, and prevents the goods from slipping when attached. Shirt and waist manufacturers use this device in their sewing rooms.

A very excellent way to join seams in a portiere is by means of a button-hole stitch. Work a row of button-hole stitches along the edge of one of the pieces, and then the button-hole edge being about one-fourth of an inch in width. With the last three stitches match the second breadth to the first. Then buttonhole for an equal length with three buttonhole stitches. In this way silks will be left between the stitches which will be broadest together. This is a craftsman's way of joining seams and it is really very ornamental and especially nice for joining portiere seams.

NEW ARM CHAIR.

For the crowded room is a perfectly ideal arm chair which is the acme of comfort for a woman to sit upon. The reason why this chair especially appeals to women is because of the sewing of its seat from the floor. That detail is the same as the so-called "low" chair which goes with the low sewing basket or for comfort. The chair has no definitely defined legs, since they are bolted in by woven willow work matching the material of the seat. Each of the legs is of an even height and also bolted in. The seat of the chair is also the lid of a box which will hold immovable papers or any amount of stockings to be mended, and so compact as well as ornamental is this new piece of furniture. It is a perfect specimen of cramped quarters will wish they owned a specimen of it.

BEST HE EVER SPENT

Bristol, Pa., Man Says So in This Letter.

Months of suffering and anxiety over his condition caused Mr. A. L. Kennedy of Bristol, Pa., to write this letter. He says that a "cold" which caused me much suffering and worry for five long months, but that it is all over now for I have taken Vinol and am perfectly well. I took five bottles and it was the best five dollars I ever spent."

In health one cannot realize how depressed a person may become after trying one remedy after another for such a condition as Mr. Kennedy was in, without benefit, or what a relief it is to find help and be restored to health and strength.

It is the combined action of the medicinal curative element of cods' livers without the greasy oil, added by the blood-making and strengthening properties of tonic iron, that makes Vinol so efficient in overcoming chronic coughs, colds and bronchitis at the same time building up the weakened run-down system.

We guarantee Vinol to give you perfect satisfaction. Brodway Pharmacy, G. G. Engler, Norwich, Conn.

P. S. For rough, scaly skin, try our Saxo Salve. We guarantee it.

FUCHSIA COLORING.

A toilette in the newest note is carried out in fuchsia colored charmeuse. The skirt is very narrow, and is but a few inches from the waist and a half buttons and black velvet bound buttons. The waistline is in its normal position, and a panner of the same silk is set in tiny gathers at the waist and flows outward, ending about the knees. The panner is not turned under and draped, but is left with a straight edge having a hemstitched border only, while below this a four hem there is a narrow band of ermine.

A successful combination of sapphire and black is found in a black satin gown with an over tunic of bright blue net, below which is a half yard deep border of black and black silk lace. The final touch is found in ropes of large black beads cut like jet, but really as light in weight as paper.

A baby's nurse should be required to wear a clean apron or cotton dress while in charge of the child, thus lessening any risk with regard to the baby's health.

Honey, alum and lemon juice is an old fashioned but good remedy for a sore throat. A dash of lemon juice in water makes a pleasant and effective tooth wash, cleaning the teeth and sweetening the breath.

A nervous headache may frequently be cured by several slices of lemon in a cup of strong tea, and a bilious headache is almost invariably put to rest by a tablespoonful of lemon juice in a cup of black coffee. The juice of half a lemon in a cup of hot water with a dash of cayenne pepper is an excellent liver corrective.
